About the Forensic Consultants Association

The Forensic Consultants Association brought together a group of scientists, psychologists, investigative engineers, accident reconstructionists, building contractors, and other specialists to work together toward common goals. Sharing perhaps only one thing in common (the knowledgeable gathering of evidence suitable for use in the courtroom), these independent consultants agreed to work together toward the following goals:

1. To increase awareness in the legal, insurance, and public sectors of the existence of the Forensic Consultants Association and the services offered by each of its members.
2. To provide, for the benefit of the membership as well as the prospective client, an effective referral system in order to bring together the client and the appropriate consultant.
3. To develop, for use by all FCA members, a system of standards, policies, procedures, and other tools needed in the course of their forensic work.
4. To better educate FCA's members by discussions at regularly scheduled meetings as well as through lectures, seminars, publications, and other means as may be devised by the association.
5. To promote the professionalism of the association and its membership by fulfilling each commitment in the manner prescribed by the CODE OF ETHICS adopted by the association.

FORENSIC CONSULTANTS ASSOCIATION CODE OF ETHICS

Members of the Forensic Consultants Association, in performance of their duties, pledge the following:

1. To honor all laws pertaining to their profession.
2. To perform services only in areas of their competence.
3. To be truthful and objective in reports, testimony and statements.
4. To pursue each case in a professional and scientific manner.
5. To perform all responsibilities agreed upon in an efficient and expeditious way.

DESIGNATION OF FCA MEMBERS AS EXPERT TRIAL WITNESSES

Most, but not necessarily all, members of the Forensic Consultants Association are available for designation as expert trial witnesses only after having been retained by counsel (or counsel's client) and only after having been given sufficient time in which to:

1. examine those items and/or facts of specific interest to counsel or client, and
2. form an expert opinion concerning those items and/or facts examined.

Designation of any FCA member as an expert trial witness without that member's knowledge or consent is viewed by this association as a taking of that member's intellectual property without just compensation.

NOTICE

The consultants listed in this directory operate as independent agents. They are listed together here solely as a service to clients, potential clients, and other members of the association. Resumes or curricula vitae are available to prospective clients directly from each consultant listed.

Each abstract in this directory has been prepared solely by or under the guidance of the individual described, and only that individual can attest to the accuracy or completeness of the data provided. The listings, and the index, are provided as a matter of service only.

Although the Forensic Consultants Association has assembled this material, it cannot...and expressly does not...assure either its accuracy or its completeness, nor does the FCA assume any liability in connection with its assemblage, or a consultant's performance of services.

Each user should examine the facts and law of their particular jurisdiction to determine whether a particular consultant's area of expertise and knowledge satisfies the user's needs.
